OCTOBER 5 — SPOKANE, WA

Interpreting with DHH Students’ Developmental and Language Milestones in Mind

Julia Petersen, MA and Laura T Petersen, MA will share their personal experiences of being hearing and deaf siblings and their journeys in strengthening their intersectional identities. Additionally, they will cover developmental milestones, language deprivation, and Maslow’s Hierarchy’s implications for DHH students.

What is expansion and how do we do it?

When trying to have the clearest interpretation, we talk about expanding on concepts. Taking into consideration all we have learned about child development, CDHY’s Interpreter Mentors will explore some of the ways to improve your skills in expansion and join you in practicing the practical application of these approaches.

Learn to assess developmental milestones and evaluate how they apply to students and your interpreting work.

Understand the effects of language deprivation within the education system.

Practice expansion techniques.
